

For new A level students:

1. Select three articles from newspaper/magazine/journal (or online) on current topics in science.
2. Compare the content, presentation, data presentation and writing styles used in the three scientific articles (it can be useful to select one topic and compare the presentation of the same topic by three different publications).
3. Make a few notes in your reading journals to compare the different approaches.

Complete for September 5th.
