Dear Parents/Carers,

We are delighted to introduce to you and to all of our students, The England Grammar School Mathematician Of The Year Competition 2022. This is a competition compiled and hosted by Dr Tom Crawford of Oxford University and the face of the award winning Tom Rocks Maths YouTube channel.

The competition tasks are separated into Key Stages 3, 4 and 5. The competition consists of both a challenging and fun multiple choice paper for students to complete within a set time. The online competition is held on Saturday 26th November 2022 and students are to complete the paper from home.

The winning prize for each key stage is £500. In addition, Dr Tom Crawford will be hosting a masterclass in Oxford for the winners and two guests to accompany each winning student. All contestants will also be awarded with a certificate of participation.

If your child is interested in taking part in this exciting competition, please complete and return the form below to Miss Murray by Friday 7th October. The cost of entry is £20 per student which is to be paid via parent pay.

Kind regards,

Miss C Murray
