Revision Resources

Dear Parents / Guardians

As we draw ever closer to external examinations I am sure you are aware of the revision lessons the Geography department will be running. Previously these have run at lunch and after school but this year we are in the fortunate position of running these in timetabled lessons. Our Monday lunch support sessions also continue throughout the pre examination period.

My primary reason for writing is that the resources we will producing for the revision lessons are quite costly, mainly because there is so much content for students to cover thus a great quantity of resources is required. I am hopeful that you might consider making a contribution towards the cost of these resources. I anticipate the total cost of resources per student to total between £8 and £10 by the end of the revision schedule. As such a variable amount, up to £10, has been put on ParentPay. Any and all contributions will be most gratefully received and will ensure that extra resources such as these are sustainable.

The revision lessons will not be sufficient alone and we expect students to be busy with additional revision alongside their studies, many of the in-class resources are supplemented with at-home activities. Geography GCSE exams test 8 topics, fieldwork and geographical skills. Revision that is purposeful, thorough and detailed will be vital if they are to be successful. The third paper is a decision making exercise which tests how well students can link their content, so as they revise they should look for how one topic links to another. Both Miss Lingwood & I have issued a number of hard copies of Paper 3 to students this week so that in the event of a school closure they can work on these at home, going over them in class afterwards.

Yours sincerely
